

Inclusive Education

LEPL Ilia Tsinamdzhvrishvili Community College supports the idea of universal access to education and is focused on active involvement of persons with special educational needs and disabilities in the educational process.

LEPL Ilia Tsinamdzhvrishvili Community College aims to create adapted conditions for vocational students with disabilities. For this, there are installed ramps in the college for wheelchair users, so they can move around the College area without hindrance. Lavatory, theoretical and practical training auditoriums are also adapted. In addition, an elevator is under construction.

A qualified specialist in inclusive education works with SEN students at the college, the educational process is controlled under his guidance. An inclusive education specialist provides students with the necessary assistance both in educational materials and in matters of career planning and professional orientation.

The strategic plan of the Ilia Tsinamdzhvrishvili Community College provides for the active involvement of SEN students in the educational process and various college events. The college administration is constantly studying the needs of SEN students in order to overcome existing problems by taking effective measures.
